

How the buffalo jump works.

A very long time ago, American Native tribes found a way to hunt buffalo an easier way. They would create a V-like path to lead the buffalo off of a cliff. They would shoot the buffalo with arrows while chasing them off of the cliff. The buffalo's bones would break due to falling off of something extremely high. The person chasing the buffalo would dress in buffalo skin to disguise them self as a buffalo. More members of the tribe would wait down below for the buffalo to fall.