

Honestly, I think that these reservations are a pretty decent size. I guess it really depends on the size of each tribe. There is one that I would say should be a little bigger and that would be Rocky Boy's. I think that these are a decent size because all of the areas, except one, are about the same size so it would be pretty fair. Also, there is still more room where they could travel without crossing on another tribe's land.